Layman, and Miss Hennen, of Kentucky; Mrs. F. B. W. Hest, of Ohio; Mrs. Charlotte Bushnell and Mrs. Nellie Williams, of San Diego, who are spending the winter here.
A delightful company was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. James T. Eaglesfield in honor of Mrs. George L. Mackintosh, an October bride. Mrs. Eaglesfield's friends were entertained with a musical programme, which was presented by Mrs. Charles C. Brown, Mrs. Frank W. Flanner and Miss Edith Brown. Assisting in the hostilities were Mrs. T. A. Wagner, Mrs. Willits A. Bastian and Miss Emily Fletcher.
Mrs. Edward Harman gave an informal reception last Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Henry J. Huder, an October bride, who was Miss Lucy Ranney. Mrs. Harman's home was prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and carnations, and she was assisted in receiving her callers by Mrs. George Edenharter, Mrs. R. O. Johnson, Mrs. William Patton and Miss Louisa Parth.

A pleasant company was given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hornbrook. The guests were limited to a few friends, and a feature of the evening was the reading from Steven Phillips' "Herod" by Mrs. May W. Donnan, which was very much enjoyed by all present. Among the guests were Miss Zoller, of Greensburg, with Miss Kate Smith, and Miss Genevieve Seovel, of Evansville, with Dr. and Mrs. William M. Wishard.
Mr. and Mrs. John Candee Dean entertained with a dinner of twelve covers, last Thursday evening, at their home on North Pennsylvania street. The floral decoration for the table, which was handsomely appointed, consisted of a center French basket of pink roses, with smaller baskets of the same flowers at either end. The light fell from pink-shaded candles, and the guests' places were marked with monogram name cards.
A simple home wedding was that of Miss Dorothy C. Comer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Comer, and Mr. De Witt V. Moore, which was solemnized in the presence of the immediate relatives Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Ashland avenue. The Rev. W. O. Moore, the father of the bridegroom, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for a wedding journey. They will reside at No. 1002 Bellefontaine street, where they will be at home after Jan. 1.
The Portfolio Club met last Thursday evening and the entertainment was basket-making. Each member was provided with materials, and Miss Seegmiller and Mrs. J. W. Piery gave the instruction. The new programmes were issued. They are extremely artistic, and are in the form of large cards with peacock design. Each programme is hand-illustrated by some of the artist members of the club. They are souvenirs in the collection of programmes that this club has issued for the past few years.

An enjoyable luncheon was given Friday at the Columbia Club by the resident alumnae of the Cincinnati Wesleyan College. Covers were laid for ten and the table was prettily decorated with white chrysanthemums. There was no formal programme of toasts, but each of the guests received some of the reminiscences of college life. The party included: Mrs. Mary R. Stewart, Mrs. Frank E. Gavin, Mrs. C. A. Dryer, Mrs. J. W. Noel, Mrs. Rose Gordon, Mrs. Robert I. Blakeman, Mrs. Spencer, Miss Harriet Ritter, Miss Emma Ridenour.
A pleasant company was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. James T. Eaglesfield in honor of Mrs. Lawrence Hull, who has recently come here to reside. Mrs. Eaglesfield and Mr. and Mrs. Hull were school friends. A progressive story furnished the amusement of the afternoon, and each guest in turn furnished a chapter to the story, the theme of which was supplied. Mrs. Eaglesfield was assisted by Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mrs. Harry Bastian, Mrs. Edgar Brown, Mrs. T. A. Wagner, Miss Emily Fletcher and Miss Katherine Layman.
The first of the Woodruff Club dances for this season was given Friday evening at the clubhouse. A pleasant reception was given Monday evening at the Tabernacle Church by the Young Ladies' Club of the church, in honor of Professor Bellinger and the members of the choral society. The church parlors were prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and palms, and delightful refreshments were served. During the evening a delightful musical programme was given by Miss Brown, violinist, and Miss Porterfield, soloist. The guests were received by Miss Sue Stewart, president of the club; Mrs. Timothy Harrison, Miss Sue Chambers, Miss June Hecker, Miss Mary Kahlo and Mrs. Harry Dickhaut and the other members of the club assisted in the hospitalities.
The Proctor Reading Circle observed a quiet day Tuesday, with Mrs. R. R. Shaw. The programme included papers on the subjects of musicians and they were illustrated with compositions. Mrs. Anna C. Reame read "Gounod" and Miss Edna Burke sang and Miss Reame played his works. Mrs. J. J. Price read of "Verdi," and the selections were given by Mrs. Kate Collins; Mrs. E. J. Brennan's subject was "Beethoven," and the numbers were by Mrs. Collins and Miss Anita Muhl. The entertainment closed with a social hour and was one of the most delightful ever given by the club.
Col. James B. Curtis, formerly of this city, entertained a box party at the horse show in New York on the opening night. His party occupied the box directly over the entrance for horses, where was had the best view of the animals. Colonel Curtis is on the floor committee of the Assembly dances given at the Knickerbocker. Mrs. Curtis is a patroness of the Knickerbocker dances, which are also given at Delmonico's. These are two of the swellest dance sets in New York. Among their patronesses are Mrs. Henry Clark Coe, Mrs. Frank Jay Gould, Mrs. Roy Clarke, Mrs. Charles Lincoln Wetherbee and Mrs. H. H. Rogers.
Mrs. George A. Gay gave a pretty luncheon last Wednesday for her guest, Mrs. Baldwin, of Boston, and Mrs. Spaulding, of Philadelphia, who is the guest of Mrs. Charles Peck. The table was prettily laid in green and white and was adorned with a center basket of white chrysanthemums and maiden-hair ferns. At the places were cards decorated with crayon sketches of fruit. With the guests of honor Mrs. Gay entertained Mrs. Peck, Mrs. John T. McShane, Mrs. Edward B. Hutchinson, Mrs. Thomas A. Winterberg, Mrs. T. A. Wagner, Mrs. D. T. Shields, Mrs. Harry B. Smith, Mrs. Joseph L. Gasper and Mrs. Frank E. Fuller.
A large reception was held Friday evening at the Young Women's Christian Association. The hostesses were the members of the association, who have belonged previously to last June. The guests of honor were those who have joined the association since that date, about 500 in all. The parlors were prettily decorated for the occasion and a musical programme was rendered during the evening by Miss Frances Fortner, Miss Bonnie Summitt and Miss Louise Tutewiler. The dining room was decorated, the color scheme of red and white being carried out in its appointments. The social committee for the evening included Mrs. C. E. Galloway, Mrs. R. W. Furnas and Mrs. G. W. Snyder.
Mrs. Charles Peck entertained at euchre Thursday afternoon, having for her special guests her visitor, Mrs. C. M. Spaulding, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Baldwin, of Boston, who is with Mrs. George A. A delightful card party was given by Miss Sue Howe yesterday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Lucy Howe, who will be married Thanksgiving day. About fifty friends were entertained and the several rooms were prettily decorated for the affair. The parlors had great clusters of pink chrysanthemums for their decoration and were lighted with candles with pink rose shades. The long mirror in the library was outlined with Southern smilax and a big bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums was placed before it. Southern smilax, the grayed ivy and the holly leaves and the pretty decorations formed an attractive setting for the dainty gowns of the hostess and her guests. Miss Howe's assistants were her mother, Mrs. Daniel Wait Howe, Mrs. H. C. Adams, Jr., Mrs. Underhill, of Cincinnati, and Miss Armstrong. Among the guests was Miss Spaulding, of Philadelphia, and Miss Zoller, of Greensburg.
Mrs. Albert Garfield Snyder entertained Thursday afternoon with a reception at her home on North Pennsylvania street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. J. R. Lindemuth, of Dayton, O., and Mrs. D. C. Moon, who has recently removed here from Watertown, N. Y. The reception room was attractively adorned with clusters of pink carnations, and chrysanthemums and carnations were used in the decoration of the other rooms. Mrs. Snyder was assisted in her hostilities by Mrs. Alice Snyder, Mrs. Herbert S. Wood, Mrs. A. Cochran, Miss Elizabeth Taggart, Miss Sue Purcell and Miss Florence Cotherell. A number of guests were present from out of town, among them Miss Uhl of Logansport, with Miss Taggart; Miss Spaulding, of Philadelphia, with Mrs. Marshall T. Levey; Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Woolworth, of Watertown, with Mrs. Moon. The American Girl.
Viscount De Santo Thraso, in Smart Set. What makes the American girl a most attractive being is her self-confidence, her ability and good temper. Now, I am not a flatterer, and I must say that pretty women are as much in the minority in the United States as in any other country. Beauty, like gold, is scarce everywhere. You can find more gold in California than in Europe; but even in California you can find more diamonds than gold. So it is with women. In some places, or in some countries, the number of pretty women is greater than in others, and in this branch of natural production the United States is not behind-hand. This, however, is only a foreigner's view of the subject. To tell the truth, I have never met an American girl of twenty who did not consider herself fascinating; this is self-confidence; and for a woman to believe she is beautiful is half way to real beauty. In the first place, a plain woman, who is a slave of her plainness, is unhappy. Man is a selfish animal, and despite what novels say about men and women and the power of tears, unhappiness is as repellent to a healthy mind as disease to a healthy body. Then, the conscious plain woman gives up every thought of pleasing, and, therefore, she does nothing to make herself attractive. She does not dress in a becoming way, she does not smile, she does not try to be attractive. She becomes sour or dull, or both.

Short-Lived Paper.
One of the Problems Librarians Have to Face.
Washington Star.
The Congressional Library has thousands and thousands of volumes of newspapers, periodicals and books of incalculable value which are fast becoming useless. The problem, if the fears of many leading librarians are realized, these are publications for which paper made of linen rags is practically indestructible. The library has books hundreds of years old, and yet they are preserved as perfectly as if they had been issued from the press but last year. But with paper made of wood pulp the case is different.
The files of newspapers at the library that are but fifteen or twenty years old show the effect of time in the condition of the paper. Readers who consult these newspapers are painfully aware how carefully they have to be in order to tear the pages as they turn them. Light and air are the destructive elements that are playing havoc with the wood pulp sheets. In fact, a leaf of paper is allowed to extend beyond the main body of the file the light and air have not only turned it yellow but have made it so brittle that it creases the paper will break. The volumes are as well preserved as they are only because they are in order to be so much the time on shelves without exposure to the light.
This danger that threatens the mass of the literature that is issued from the press of the country to-day has been carefully considered by book lovers and especially of those who have the care of great libraries. The suggestion has been made that a few copies of all newspapers that are to be preserved be run off on substantial linen paper. There are such newspapers published before the revolutionary war, and frequently referred to, that are to-day in the best of condition. The same might be accomplished with all newspapers. It is believed by men who have made this matter a specialty that within fifty years the newspaper files of the United States cannot be accessible to the public without great restrictions on account of their fragile condition. The Congressional Library is preserving the files of the newspapers daily. Many a man to-day seeks them for information that can be found nowhere else. As the years pass by the value of the newspaper files is applying for a library is in fact doing a work that has often been talked of but never undertaken so thoroughly before. It is being widely appreciated in the years to come. But if it were possible to pass a law requiring all publishers to print for copyright to be printed on durable paper, legislation would be approved by the generations to come.

A Difference.
New York Sun.
They were standing in front of a cheap hotel.
The one individual had long hair and a long beard.
The other wore a plug hat and a pin in his cravat which was also plugged.
"Ah, yes," said the one, "I hear that the wife of Egge, the actor, is applying for a divorce because her husband refused to carry the baby when it cries."
"And pritties," said the other, "what part does Egge take on the stage?"
"Why," he carries Sappho up a spiral stairway."

Photos for Holidays.
If you desire your pictures for the holidays you should not delay. The new things were shown in mountings, has largely increased our business this season, so it will pay you to make early appointments. Stewart M. Foulger, 223 Massachusetts avenue and 120 East Ohio street.

The American Girl.
Viscount De Santo Thraso, in Smart Set. What makes the American girl a most attractive being is her self-confidence, her ability and good temper. Now, I am not a flatterer, and I must say that pretty women are as much in the minority in the United States as in any other country. Beauty, like gold, is scarce everywhere. You can find more gold in California than in Europe; but even in California you can find more diamonds than gold. So it is with women. In some places, or in some countries, the number of pretty women is greater than in others, and in this branch of natural production the United States is not behind-hand. This, however, is only a foreigner's view of the subject. To tell the truth, I have never met an American girl of twenty who did not consider herself fascinating; this is self-confidence; and for a woman to believe she is beautiful is half way to real beauty. In the first place, a plain woman, who is a slave of her plainness, is unhappy. Man is a selfish animal, and despite what novels say about men and women and the power of tears, unhappiness is as repellent to a healthy mind as disease to a healthy body. Then, the conscious plain woman gives up every thought of pleasing, and, therefore, she does nothing to make herself attractive. She does not dress in a becoming way, she does not smile, she does not try to be attractive. She becomes sour or dull, or both.

Short-Lived Paper.
One of the Problems Librarians Have to Face.
Washington Star.
The Congressional Library has thousands and thousands of volumes of newspapers, periodicals and books of incalculable value which are fast becoming useless. The problem, if the fears of many leading librarians are realized, these are publications for which paper made of linen rags is practically indestructible. The library has books hundreds of years old, and yet they are preserved as perfectly as if they had been issued from the press but last year. But with paper made of wood pulp the case is different.
The files of newspapers at the library that are but fifteen or twenty years old show the effect of time in the condition of the paper. Readers who consult these newspapers are painfully aware how carefully they have to be in order to tear the pages as they turn them. Light and air are the destructive elements that are playing havoc with the wood pulp sheets. In fact, a leaf of paper is allowed to extend beyond the main body of the file the light and air have not only turned it yellow but have made it so brittle that it creases the paper will break. The volumes are as well preserved as they are only because they are in order to be so much the time on shelves without exposure to the light.
This danger that threatens the mass of the literature that is issued from the press of the country to-day has been carefully considered by book lovers and especially of those who have the care of great libraries. The suggestion has been made that a few copies of all newspapers that are to be preserved be run off on substantial linen paper. There are such newspapers published before the revolutionary war, and frequently referred to, that are to-day in the best of condition. The same might be accomplished with all newspapers. It is believed by men who have made this matter a specialty that within fifty years the newspaper files of the United States cannot be accessible to the public without great restrictions on account of their fragile condition. The Congressional Library is preserving the files of the newspapers daily. Many a man to-day seeks them for information that can be found nowhere else. As the years pass by the value of the newspaper files is applying for a library is in fact doing a work that has often been talked of but never undertaken so thoroughly before. It is being widely appreciated in the years to come. But if it were possible to pass a law requiring all publishers to print for copyright to be printed on durable paper, legislation would be approved by the generations to come.

A Difference.
New York Sun.
They were standing in front of a cheap hotel.
The one individual had long hair and a long beard.
The other wore a plug hat and a pin in his cravat which was also plugged.
"Ah, yes," said the one, "I hear that the wife of Egge, the actor, is applying for a divorce because her husband refused to carry the baby when it cries."
"And pritties," said the other, "what part does Egge take on the stage?"
"Why," he carries Sappho up a spiral stairway."
